2012 – 2013 INCOME APPEAL - PARENT

The Cal Maritime Financial Aid Office understands that family circumstances can change and impact the ability to financially support their son/daughter's enrollment. Federal regulations allow Financial Aid Offices to review changes in family situations and if possible, adjust the Estimated Family Contribution (EFC). At Cal Maritime we will accept income appeals for the following circumstances:

- Loss of job or reduction in earned income
- Loss of income benefit (Social Security, Disability, Unemployment etc.)
- Change in parental marital status
- Excessive medical bills or caregiver expenses
- Other unusual circumstances that have adversely affected family income

Income Appeals should be submitted as soon as possible after the change in income/circumstance can be documented. Please allow up to 3 weeks for our staff to complete the review process. When reviewing loss of job and benefit appeals we will use 2012 actual and estimated income to determine the student's eligibility.

When considering appeals, we may need to verify the data initially provided on the FAFSA. If you have not submitted the appropriate verification documents, you may be asked to provide additional information before your appeal will be considered.
